

The Medieval Cemetery of Slutiski and Ancient Settlement

Slutiski village is situated in Slutiski, Naujene rural municipality, on the right bank of the river Daugava. In the materials of museum Slutiski as a village was mentioned in 1785.

Rectangle log house buildings covered with gabled or for-sided roof are on the basis of all buildings. Peasants' traditions of building house can be felt here. Decoration of houses is similar to our neighbors – Slavic peoples building traditions, which are expressed in facades, in luxuriantly, decorated windows, doors and swards.

In 1986 archaeological excavation was made in the territory of villages and a settlement (15th- 16th century) and burials (15th- 17th century) were discovered there. From 1998 it is considered to be ethnographical monument.
